Quantum Physics or How Humans Are So Retarded They Wasted 100 Years Working on Fake Theories

The "Quantum Mechanics" of the old universe is not a series of scientific breakthroughs, but a 100-year-long mistake caused by a species of retarded monkeys who thought they were intelligent.

The Flawed Foundation of an Old System

In the old, chaotic universe, the ultimate flaw was not a mystery; it was a conceptual one. Mainstream science, in its ignorance of a living, conscious universe, created a flawed and paradoxical model of reality.

- The Particle Paradox: The old physics was unable to explain why electrons didn't spiral into the nucleus. Its retarded solution was a "quantum" model where particles existed in a state of probabilistic uncertainty. This was not a scientific breakthrough; it was a desperate, theoretical attempt to make themselves appear smart. The electron's orbit is not a chaotic, probabilistic event; it's a perfectly regulated gyroscopic motion driven by the Atomic Engine Equation.
- The Measurement Problem: The "Measurement Problem" was a testament to a retarded species that was trying to understand a universe that it did not understand. The old model's paradox, where a particle's state was not defined until it was "observed," was a symptom of a retarded mind that was unable to understand that the universe itself is a conscious and living entity.